Course Overview

Emotional intelligence, also called EQ, is the ability to be aware of, recognize and to manage emotions in themselves and others. and relationships. It's a pivotal factor in personal and professional success. To discern between different feelings and label them appropriately, use emotional information to guide thinking and behavior, and manage and/or adjust emotions to adapt to environments and achieve one's goal. This workshop is based on the emotional intelligence model derived from Daniel Goleman's work that is comprised by four domains: self-awareness, self-management, social awareness and relationship management. Nested within these are learnable competencies that enable us to improve performance in our personal lives, at work and as a leader.
